Bryan,

it might be helpful to confirm the shaft diameters for the potential buyer.

Or state what airframe it came from...

Somewhere along the way control shafts got a large diameter.

They look great and really modern.

Best regards,

Also the control shafts are not just based on diameter. The firewall end of the shafts are specific for certain models. Without listing the models the shafts will fit, or what model they came from, I don't expect you'll get much interest.

Agree, I will get that info posted today. They are the 201 styled control rods and thicker walled shafts so I will try to get the part numbers today. Thanks guys.
